Occupation overview

Community Health and Wellbeing Workers are a rapidly expanding workforce supporting the increasing emphasis across government departments on improving the health of local people and communities by preventing poor health and tackling inequalities.

Their work is informed by the wider social determinants of health, such as the social, cultural, political, economic, commercial and environmental factors that shape the conditions in which people are born, grow, live, work and age.

Typical job titles include:

- Health Trainer
- Social Prescribing Link Worker
- Live Well Coach
- Care or Service Navigator
- Community Connector
- Community Health Champion

A full overview of the occupation is available on GOV.UK as part of the collection: apprenticeships that support public health careers: <https://www.gov.uk/government/collections/apprenticeships-that-support-public-health-careers>

The Institute of Apprenticeships and Technical Education will publish the approved apprenticeship standard and end-point assessment shortly at: <https://www.instituteforapprenticeships.org/apprenticeship-standards/community-health-and-wellbeing-worker>
